IRISH PEACE
PARLEY OPENS
TUESDAY MORN

Irish Delegation Met in London to Formulate Plans.

London, Oct. 10.—(By the Associated Press)—Michael Collins, Sinn Fein Minister of Finance, arrived in London this morning, completing the Sinn Fein delegation which tomorrow will confer with representatives of the British government to ascertain "How the association of Ireland with the community of nations known as the British Empire may best be reconciled with Irish national aspirations." The Sinn Fein delegates were early at work today completing arrangements for the meeting.

Prime Minister Lloyd George and the members of his cabinet forming the British delegation also had a meeting to decide on the course of procedure.

Arthur Griffith, Sinn Fein foreign minister, said this morning he was delighted with the success of the Sinn Fein in securing the services as third secretary to the Irish delegation of John Charles, besides being highly versed in legal matters, was chief of the justice section of the war's armament committee during the war and for nine years was director of the justice department of the London Times.

To Accept No Invitations
Mr. Griffith said he expected Mr. Charles to be of great value in interpreting the British proposals.

Eamon J. Duggan, Sinn Fein member of the British parliament who since the truce has acted as chief liaison officer, arrived early at the secretariat for a conference with the other delegates.

The Sinn Fein delegates have decided not to accept any hospitality which England, except from personal friends. This decision is not due to hostility toward Londoners, they say, but because they wish to save themselves from being overwhelmed with invitations.

Desmond Fitzgerald, Sinn Fein minister of propaganda, said today he expected the conference commencing tomorrow would decide to issue an agreed communique daily, as was done when Eamon De Valera, the Irish republican leader, met Mr. Lloyd George in London some time ago. If the British representatives have a stenographer present, the Sinn Fein delegates will claim a similar right and they have brought a man from Dublin with them, for the purpose.

OREGON WOMAN
FOUND DEAD IN CINCINNATI INN

Class Pin Leads to Identification By
Her Husband.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 9.—A school class pin led to the identification of the body of a woman which had been at a local undertaking establishment since Sept. 2 as that of Mrs. George F. Griswold of Oregon, Ill. The husband made the identification positive today.

Mrs. Griswold, who had registered at a local hotel Sept. 2 as Mrs. Patricia Lee, died suddenly in her room. Among her effects was the class pin. A Cincinnati jeweler discovered it had been bought in Richmond, Va.

The jeweler who sold the pin was communicated with and he replied that it had been sold to a woman who had graduated from a school in Staunton, Va. Further investigation disclosed that two members of the class had the same initials. One was living in Staunton and she wrote that the other woman had married and left that city. Further inquiry located her home as Oregon, Ill., and Mr. Griswold came here.

Oregon, Ill., Oct. 9.—George S. Griswold has resided in Rockford for two years. He is the son of a pioneer family who reside on a farm four miles north of Oregon. He married an eastern woman about eight years ago. She was a horsewoman he met at the International Stock Show at Chicago. They resided upon the home farm here until Griswold's health forced him to spend a year in New Mexico. His wife had been with him part of the time since, and part of the time she spent in Washington, D. C., her former home.

SIDELIGHTS on BIG SERIES

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Next to losing a ball game the players in this world's series hate worst to face the crowds of shouting fans that gather daily outside their club houses. They would like to dodge out a rear door to the streets and sneak home by alley routes, but the rub is that there is only one exit from the club house.

"Gee, look at that crowd out there," modest Frank Frisch exclaimed yesterday as he peeped out of the Giants' stronghold.

"O, go on, what are you afraid of," Douglas yelled.

Frisch hesitated and then made a wild dash for freedom. He made it only after his clothes had nearly been torn off him.

A minute later Douglas looked out. He turned back to wait until the crowd became thinner but the crowd refused to disperse despite the efforts of a score of private policemen. "O, go ahead," Burns smiled to Douglas.

"Shuffling Phil" waited until Burns was ready and they made a hurried exit together. One fan insisted that the victorious pitcher autograph his card. With the crowd around him Douglas's signature resembled a doctor's chart of a patient's temperature.

The Giants are playing "feast or famine" base ball in the title series with the Yankees, in the first two games they were blanked with few hits. In the third, they made 13 runs on 20 hits and yesterday they made four of their nine hits, and three of their four runs all in one inning.

The four in the eighth included every variety save a home run.

Emil Muesel opened with a triple to deep left. Then came a looping single by Rawlings, followed by an attempted sacrifice by Snyder that rolled out of Mays' reach for a hit. Next, a sacrifice by Douglas and line double to left by Burns.

Of these Snyder's was the shortest, yet it was the turning point of the game. It rolled gently between the pitcher's box and first but Mays, who went for it, slipped and it went unfielded. With the tieing run already counted, this hit upset the Yankees and it was quickly followed by Burns' hit that scored two runs.

"Just like Coveleskie at his best," was a Cleveland fan's compliment on Douglas' pitching. He said the Giant hurler worked almost exactly like "Covey" in the last year's series of which he was a star.

The camera man tried to get both Douglas and Mays to smile when they snapped them, but neither would comply. And each carried out their serious explanations during the game. Douglas did smile a little when the boys congratulated him in the club house. Mays didn't.

The Giants in a world's series without Manager McGraw on the coaching line! To the old followers of the game, that may seem incredible, but it's true in this year's championship battle.

The fact that Manager McGraw does not appear on the sidelines to encourage his boys on to victory, however, isn't any indication that he is absent from the games. He's there every minute—in mental, if not in physical action, occupying his secluded seat in the Giants' dugout.

Many fans sit within a few feet of him in the stands but seldom see him. Literally thousands of fans who came to New York to see him on the battlefield with his National League champions have yet to get a glimpse of him. They hoped to see the stocky, quick mentor with his steel gray hair, waving in the breeze, as he doffed his cap when the team "came through"—standing in the third base coaching box as was his habit for years.

But, following his more recent custom, the veteran chief remains on the bench, dressed in "civics."

He leaves his active coaching to his assistants, Hughey Jennings and Cozy Dolan.

Manager Miller Huggins of the Yanks on the other hand, does it the old McGraw way. He is always to be seen in Yankee uniform out on the sidelines, usually back of first base.

Yesterday's game, as a result of the ineffective pitching of the Yankee twisters, saw a number of world's series records smashed. Those eight hits in the seventh inning made one record, the eight runs another, and the twelve men who batted still another. Pop Young's two hits in the seventh inning, one a double, the other a triple, also made history.

The time required to play the nine innings—2 hours and 40 minutes—added a few lines to the records.

Twenty hits for one team in one game never was recorded before in a world's series. Burns garnered four of them, three singles and a triple. Frisch, besides drawing three free passes, hit safely twice. Young walked twice then made a triple and a double in the same inning. Emil Muesel collected a double and two singles. Snyder four singles and Jess Barnes two, Rawlings got two and Bancroft one. Kelly and Pitcher Toney were the only Giants who failed to connect at least once.

George Burns' great run and capture of Quinn's drive toward the center field bleacher wall will go down in baseball history as one of the greatest plays of the game. It will be mentioned along with Aaron Ward's leaping one-handed catch of Rawlings' liner toward right, in the second, which enabled the Yankee keystone shaker to double Emil Muesel, off first and pull Bob Shawkey out of a deep hole.

Toney's showing for the Giants was disappointing but Big Fred had a tough break and probably will get another chance. Jess Barnes who relieved him, pitched a masterful game and as a result McGraw believes he has the series won.

DEANERY MEETS AT ST. LUKE'S CHURCH MONDAY

The Northern Deanery of the Episcopal churches will meet in Dixon on Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 17 and 18. The meeting will start with a supper at the Parish House at 6 o'clock on Monday evening, which will be followed by a sermon by Bishop C. P. Anderson of Chicago.

Following holy communion at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, the deanery meeting will be held. At the close of a business session Rev. A. Gordon Fowler of the Grace Episcopal church of Sterling will give a review and paper talks on "Religious Education" will be given by Rev. Hastings and Rev. Andrews, the latter being the chairman of the teachers' training department.

In the announcement of the deanery meeting issued by Rev. George Carlton Story, B. D., of St. Luke's church who is secretary, it is requested that the clergy remain over for a conference on Tuesday afternoon and a trip to Sterling in order that they may see the notable improvements in the church property there.

The transformation from the dingy, decrepit property to the present state is most encouraging," says the secretary's comment on the Sterling edifice.

GRANITE ARCH FOR COUNTY MEMORIAL IS HINT FROM PAW PAW

"Arch" Makes Suggestion in Letter to the Dixon Telegraph.

Editor Dixon Evening Telegraph—

Much has been said both for and against the proposed Bronze Tablets which are to serve as a memorial for Lee County's soldiers and sailors of the War.

The ancient Egyptians, Romans, the Greeks all built memorials to commemorate their gods, their warriors, their Kings and others who gained honor and fame in their various walks of life. Many of these Memorials still stand, rare and beautiful pieces of architecture and art, and from which, our modern day memorials are copied to a greater or less degree.

A community building built in the form of a memorial or erected out of granite in the form of a permanent memorial would cost too much money even to be considered. Furthermore there is a question whether or not the people of Lee County would vote to pay such a sum as would be necessary for such a memorial could not be erected short of from $150,000 to $175,000.

The next proposition would be the granite arch for instance as suggested by Major Tourkilot some time ago at the memorial meeting which was held in the Court House at Dixon. A suggestion which seems to be met with approval and enthusiasm by a number of the people in diverse parts of the county. Why not a massive granite arch located where the present arch is now. It would seem that inasmuch as a memorial is erected out of sentiment of the community what would be more expressive of a grateful people than a granite arch of which one buttress would rest on Federal property, the other on County property, spanning the Main Street of a Nation, where thousands upon thousands shall pass beneath it each year and where the whole world may see a county's expression of gratitude and marvel at the beauty and distinctiveness of

WILL AMERICAN WOMEN GO BACK TO LONG SKIRTS?

Will the American woman accept the Parisian ukase to go back to long skirts? The subject is worthy of careful consideration. Whatever one's personal opinion about the matter may be, and that naturally varies as to age, there is an economic side to the question. Matrimony so far has played an important part in our modern civilization, and it is within bounds to state that the short skirt and marriage are associated with each other. It will be tragic for a woman who has been accustomed to be looked at by men to be entirely ignored by men when she wears a long skirt. It will mean the supreme test of feminine charm. The intellect may play an important part, and there is always the old trick of appealing to the strength, courage and desire to protect which most men are gifted with. To say the least, it is a dangerous move on the part of the feminine sex and why not come right out with it?—most men prefer the short skirt.

HIS NOON DAY MEAL SHOULD BE SUBSTANTIAL

The colder the weather the heartier food a man needs. He who must carry his dinner during the winter months will appreciate a bottle of hot soup, substantial sandwiches and a generous dessert. Starch and sugar are quick energy-producing foods and the proportion should be increased in the winter dinner. Muscular building foods must of course form a large part of the dinner and minerals must be introduced in fruits.

During the cold weather fill the thermos bottle with a nourishing soup. It will do more toward keeping a hard working man fit than coffee. Split pea soup, dried bean soup, potato soup, any heavy cream soup should prove acceptable.

These menus are well balanced and practical.

Split pea soup, ground beef and tomato catsup sandwiches, rye bread and peanut butter sandwiches, chocolate cake, apples.

Dried bean soup, pork sandwiches, onion sandwiches, baked apple with top milk, doughnuts.

Split Pea Soup

One cup dried split peas, 2 quarts cold water, 1/2 onion, 1 teaspoon sugar, 3 tablespoons bacon fat, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 2 cups milk.

Pick over peas and wash through several waters. Soak over night in water to cover. Drain and put in cold water with the sugar and onion. Simmer three or four hours until soft. Melt bacon fat, stir in flour and add milk gradually. Rub the cooked peas through a sieve and add to the white sauce. Add more milk if the soup is too thick. The pea puree may be prepared and kept on ice for a day or two.

The sandwiches in the first menu are made of left over cooked beef, ground and moistened with catsup.

Dried Bean Soup

One cup dried beans, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, dash mustard, 2 tablespoons butter, milk.

Pick over and wash beans. Soak over night in cold water to cover. Drain and put in kettle. Pour over cold water to cover and add 1/2 teaspoon soda. Bring to the boiling point an hour five minutes. Drain, and rinse well in cold water. Put on to cook in about 2 quarts of cold water. Cook slowly until beans are very tender. Rub through a sieve, add sugar, salt, butter, dash of mustard and pepper. Reheat with enough milk to make of creamy consistency.

REVIVAL SERVICES IN TWO CHURCHES OF DIXON ARE HELPFUL

Good Audiences and Inspiring Sermons Reported Sunday.

AT BAPTIST CHURCH

The revival meetings at the Baptist church have developed a very great interest not only on the part of members of the church but of many others as well. Evangelist Joseph Croft Dent preached an inspirational sermon yesterday morning on "Pre-eminent Preparedness" and an evangelistic sermon in the evening on "Souls for Sale." During the Sunday School hour he preached a children's sermon to the intermediate department of the school and in the afternoon gave an illustrated sermon at the State Colony. Mrs. Katherine Ballou sang solos at both morning and evening services, and in the morning there was a cornet solo by Prof. H. B. Stearns. These meetings will continue over next Sunday, ending with next Sunday evening. Tonight the subject for the sermon will be "Three Nuggets of Gold." It is designated Young Peoples' Night, and it is hoped that a large number of young people will be present. The service begins at 7:30. The choir leads in the singing of spirited hymns and furnishes special music each evening. Some have already united with the church and several others have indicated their desire to do so. Every department of the church is feeling the inspiration of these special meetings.

AT GRACE CHURCH

Evangelist Charles A. Jacobs preached two strong sermons at Grace church yesterday. The attendance was encouraging and the singing was inspiring. In the morning Rev. Jacobs preached on "Meeting God," and his sermon was based on Ex. 25:22. He said that people may go to church and never meet God at all. Mercy is that condition of heart in God which makes it possible for Him to pardon the sinner. If we have a yearning to meet Him, He will meet us and that will mean blessing and help of every kind. We need to meet Him at the place of complete consecration; at the place of prayer; and in the place of fruitful service. This will make it possible for us to meet Him finally in the place of reward.

The sermon in the evening was based on Christ's message to the church at Smyrna, Rev. 2:8-11. This church was subjected to persecution. Christ's message to it was: 1. A call to courage. "Fear not those things which thou shalt suffer." 2. A warning of coming conflict. "The devil shall cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tried." 3. A promise of a crown. "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life." The minister said that the present deplorable moral condition of the world is due to moral cowardice. He addressed a congregation in a rescue mission not long ago and told his hearers that men are sinful and criminal because they have been afraid to obey God. At the close a very large man in whose face there were the marks of sin came forward as a penitent and confessed that he had been reared in a Christian home but that he did not have the courage to stand against the scoffs and sneers of the ungodly, and the result was that sin had well nigh ruined him for ever. A number of striking illustrations both of cowardice and courage were given.

New York Letter

New York, Oct. 10.—The story about the shoe-maker's children going shoeless was always sad enough. But when the law steps in and prevents a tailor from pressing his own clothes, it is almost tragic. Benjamin Minken lives in the rear of his store at 118 Buffalo avenue, Brooklyn. Therefore when he prepared to be all dressed up for church, it was the natural thing and use his good, heavy iron on them, for him to carry his own trousers into the front room on Sunday morning. He was arrested for impairing the peace of the day, because it was in his tailor shop that he was doing the work. "Your honor," urged Mr. Minken, "I am so busy pressing other people's clothes six days in the week, that I can't get to my own until Sunday. I didn't know it was against the law for a man to do that. My wife might darn her own stockings on Sunday, mightn't she?" Magistrate Dooley agreed with him that a law against that would be too blue, indeed.

Senator Kenyon's bill would be a substitute for the general coal control bill in effect which was defeated by the senate last summer and would give the federal trade commission board powers in supervising the coal industry. A companion bill introduced today by Senator Kenyon, who has charge of the investigation of disorders in the West Virginia coal region, would penalize profiteering in coal and fix operators' and distributors' profits. The maximum profit proposed for operators would be fifty cents a ton and forty cents for distributors. A graded system of profits was proposed, scaled according to volume handled.

REESE—Born Oct. 6 at the Katherine Shaw Bethel hospital, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reese, 1901 Hennepin avenue.

CARLSEN—Born early this morning, Oct. 10, a son to Mr. and Mrs. William Carlsten, at the Katherine Shaw Bethel hospital.

The most sensitive financial institution in the country hardly feels currents of prosperity and money tightness more quickly than do philanthropic institutions. That is the cheering thing about the reports of the Y. W. C. A. finance workers who are here in conference from all over the country. They have brought a definite optimism regarding the financial pick-up for which we've all been peering so eagerly into the future. The Y. W., along with other civic and charitable associations, has felt the recent money tightness in its heart as well as its pocketbook. Girls whose jobs just vanished into the general sea of retrenchment and girls who never had jobs but must get them now because of their fathers and brothers and husbands being out of work have all been turning to the Y. W. for aid. The association is helping them to find positions as rapidly as possible and enabling many of them to live decently in the meantime. At the same time, it has been having greater difficulty in obtaining funds with which to carry on even as in normal times. The workers gather here, however, who are mostly secretaries and chairmen of their local branches, are confident now that even though there will still be difficulties ahead, the way is beginning to brighten somewhat and the strain to lighten. The girls won't all find work right away, but there is a prospect of more money to help out in the meantime, the workers believe; and when that condition arrives, it is never very long before jobs develop, too.

Auctioneer Plans to Locate in Dixon

Greaver C. Magnesa, brother of Mrs. A. D. Knapp, arrived here Sunday evening from South Dakota, coming by way of Minnesota, where he sold a large stock sale. Mr. Magnesa expects to locate here as an auctioneer.

HAPPY ENDING

"I have just heard of a woman who went to a hotel unaccompanied and discovered that the acoustic properties of her room were such that every time she spoke aloud there was an echo. She then made a bold attempt to get in a last word, and in so doing talked herself to death."—Portland Express and Advertiser.

REPUBLICANS FACE ANOTHER TAX BILL SPLIT

Proposal to Increase Income Tax Brings More Trouble.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Having bridged one gap in their party ranks over tax revision legislation, Republican leaders in the senate were faced today with what was reported to be another sizeable defection. The chief point in controversy was the proposal to increase the income surtax rate, the opposition being led by a group of senators from eastern states.

The surtax increase constitutes the major provision in the compromise program agreed upon by the leaders after conferences with senators from the western states who insisted on a rate higher than the house maximum of 32 per cent. House leaders who have been called into conference by Chairman Penrose, of the senate finance committee, are standing out for the house rate. Representative Mondell of Wyoming and Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee, declaring that they saw no reason for a change.

APPROACHING PERIL

Biologists are expressing alarm about "how the United States is going to feed itself when its population reaches 1,000,000,000." That, according to Prof. E. M. East, may come "within the span of life of the grandchildren of persons now living."

The peril is world-wide.
Population of the earth now is about 1,700,000,000, and increasing about 16,000,000 persons a year. One American to 16 others.

Van Buren Thorne, medical scientist, writes a book, "The Control of Life." In it, he gives these figures on total population of Europe:

1890	187,000,000
1850	268,000,000
1900	400,000,000

At that rate of increase, it would seem to be only a matter of time until Europe will be so thickly populated that every one will have to stand up when he sleeps, no room to lie down.

The wave of alarm about rapidly increasing population, that now is vibrating through the scientific world,
would please old Malthus, English economist who died in 1834.

Malthus set loose a theory (the Malthusian Doctrine), that population at all times tends to outrun subsistence.
In other words, that people multiply faster than they can be fed, and that famines and wars are necessary to keep population within bounds.

England, however, reports that she has more people than in 1914, despite the big death toll of the war.

Famine and wars kill many but the tendency is for population to increase yearly. That must be a stickler for the people who believe that all of us are reincarnated, that we have lived before on earth. Since population is bigger now than in the past, where was the excess living 200 years ago?

Population does NOT increase faster than the ability to derive a living from the soil.
Europe's big increase from 1850 to 1900 was taken care of by the machine age—mass production. Similar advancement will always be the case.
Texas, according to agricultural experts, could be made to grow enough to feed all the people now living on earth.

Steadily we are getting more and more out of an acre. If the population becomes perilously large, all food will be grown in hothouses, future Luther Burbanks showing our descendants how to raise and harvest a wheat crop in a few weeks or even days.

THE MARVEL

To grow the crops that feed you, requires an average of 20 inches of rainfall, or 2260 tons of water to the acre.

If rain stopped falling and we had to haul water to farms from rivers and lakes, the labor involved would be so enormous that people would have to stop manufacturing, abandon their cities and their civilizations, and all flock to the country. The effort required to haul water and wheat a living from the soil would be so big that we would not have time
for anything else.

A few showers or their absence
make tremendous differences in humanity's scheme of things, says a bulletin of the National Geographical Society.

No wonder we all talk about the weather.

No wonder we all are forever speculating whether it will rain or not.
That isn't prompted primarily by concern over the effect of rain on our clothes and intended trips. It is an inheritance from ancestors who did no work except to get food, and to whom a shower often means a rescue from death.

Nature does 90 per cent of the work that furnishes our living. All we do is run around the machine with an oil can and grab the finished products when they are ready for consumption.

We turn our puny powers to the soil. Nature responds, does nine times as much work, and the mysterious alchemy brings food out of barren
earth.

We burn coal, and take great pride
in our ability to mine it under difficulties. Wise nature provided that coal millions of years ago when she buried forests and turned them into fuel.

Millions of years ago, nature put in the ground the oil and metals without which there could be no machinery
or civilization.

Nature furnishes the trees for our lumber. We take what we want, and wantonly destroy many more.

Two impressive facts loom up, as
you study nature:

First: That nature is on the side of every human, wants us to survive and be happy, and began millions of years ago to prepare a feast of plenty for us.

Second: The preparation of the earth and its resources for man did not happen just by chance. Back of it all is the marvelous intelligence that we instinctively call God. Only the foolish can deny His existence after a glance at the wonders of nature.

Is man—warring, greedy, cruel—worthy of the rich storehouses of the earth? So far, no. In time? Possibly.
If not, if man proves himself unworthy, he will go the way of the dinosaur and the mammoth—into extermination, and a new form of life
will rise in his place.

ROADS

The federal aid road act has been in operation five years and three months. The result is that 7469 miles of good roads have been completed and 17,977 miles are under construction.

The total, roughly, is equal to a road around the world or about eight times across the continent.

That is an achievement, and a heritage for the future, that this generation can be rightly proud of. Civilization, progress and prosperity follow the road builder.

YANKIES

The thrift of the New England
Yankee, and the inventive ingenuity which it produced, have been world-famous for centuries.

Bankers now say that Massachusetts people still are the thriftiest in the United States, 67 per cent having savings accounts.

What is it that, despite immigration
makes one section of the country persist in thrift while others are noted generation after generation for crime, fast life, bad health, etc?
Climate and drinking water?

EXPORTS

We do things on such a big scale
in this country, with so many millions helping, that we do not realize their magnitude.

Southern Railway figures out that American exports in first six months of 1921 were 34,011,000 tons. That would fill a train of freight cars 10, 305 miles long, or nearly half-way around the world.

The figures also show that tonnage or physical amounts of the leading exports were bigger than in the corresponding six months of 1920.
Losing our foreign trade? No. Just a fall in prices.

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well

WET FEET

By R. H. BISHOP JR., M. D.

The rainy season soon to be followed by wet snows is now upon us. There will be many children who will get their feet wet, and probably just as many grown-ups. Wet feet do not hurt one but the results of getting your feet wet are very liable to bring a bad cold or something worse, if the proper precautions are not taken.

There are thousands of cases of pneumonia every year due indirectly to wet feet not taken care of.

Children are usually the commonest
victims not only because their resistance to colds and diseases is less than the resistance of older people but also because they allow their feet to go wet
for hours without changing to dry stockings and shoes.

People beyond 60 years of age are also peculiarly prone to catch colds and diseases easily, not especially because of any organic diseases which they may have, but usually for the reason that they, like children, are low in their powers of bodily vitality.

Probably leaky shoes are as much to blame for wet feet as the individuals themselves. Parents should see that their children change into dry stockings and shoes as soon as possible after their exposure to the wet.

The danger increases in proportion to the length of exposure and for this reason change should be made as early as possible. Parents, too, might take the precaution of greasing the children's shoes, since this often helps to keep them from leaking.

Plain rubbers in rainy weather and arctic overshoes during wet snows are excellent safeguards against wet feet,
though they should never be worn except during wet weather as they do not allow the perspiration from the feet to escape as readily as it should.

When the feet have been exposed to the wet for a long period it is often of great benefit in staving off a cold to take a hot foot bath and rub the feet well afterwards. Usually one needs only to change to dry shoes and stockings afterwards, though it is well to take the precaution to wipe the feet vigorously with a rough bath towel.

Hot mustard foot baths are good when one is suspicious of ill effects of exposure to wet weather.

WHEN A WOMAN TELLS

By RUTH AGNES ABELING

CHAPTER LXX.

I VISIT THE SCENE OF DEATH.

I wasn't surprised that Philip Ames had ended his life, for as I thought of our last conversation, I realized that at that time he had as much as told me he might do such a thing.

And as I stood there in the dusk,
the telephone receiver still in my hand,
it was his wife of whom I thought.
What of her—the woman of the beautiful voice, the woman who, it seemed,
had never been a part of her husband's life?

I wondered if she knew, if Miss Howard had called her—and then suddenly came the thought of Lila.

What would Lila do? Would she feel a responsibility in the tragedy,
and would the accusation of the thing have an effect upon her treatment of
her husband?

RUTH AGNES ABELING.

I wondered how to tell her. I even considered the wild scheme of trying to keep the thing from her entirely,
but I knew that would be impossible.

So, fearfully, I started up stairs and went into my own room. I listened a second. There was no sound in Lila's room. I tapped lightly on the door. Almost instantly she opened it.

"He's asleep," she whispered.

I motioned to her to come into my room. As I closed the door she gripped both of my arms.

"What is wrong?" she demanded.
Her eyes in their fear were like those of a wild beast trapped and struggling.

"Philip Ames is dead," I said. "He killed himself."

Lila made no outcry. She put her hands over her eyes. I saw her figure sway slightly. My room was shadowy. I had not lighted the lights.
Her tears were her own, I thought. I did not want to see them; I had no right.

Finally, through the darkness, her voice came to me.

"Does his wife know?" she asked.
And then I knew that Lila Ames no longer cared for Philip.

"I don't know," I half whispered.
"I suppose someone should go—"

"Where did it happen?" asked Mrs.
Ames.

"Today is National Fire Prevention
Day."

Most of our fires are as needless as they are destructive. They proceed
from carelessness which is nothing short of criminal. The memories of Chicago's frightful conflagration in 1871 and of Boston's in 1872 have not prevented other destructive city fires,
nor do the warnings against forest fires prevent destructive experiences
there.

Yet it would be a mistake to suppose that there is no value in these warnings. If the placards on the tel-ergraph poles do not serve to prevent all fires, it does not follow that they do not make some people more careful.

WILLIAM E. BARTON.

THE FOLLY OF FIRES

By DR. WM. E. BARTON.

Not long ago I was taken in the automobile of a friend who carried me
through a heavily-timbered region that had been swept a week before by a forest fire. A wide area was devastated. Glorious trees stood brown and dead. The damage mounted into the millions.

A passing motorist had thrown away his cigar stub and it had lodged in dry leaves at the roadside.

The daily papers last summer contained an item concerning a disastrous forest fire near St. John's, New Brunswick, which left in the heart of the burned district a telegraph pole beside the road, bearing conspicuous and unharmed, a notice requesting people to be careful to avoid fire.

It seemed the irony of fate that this pole with its placard should have escaped. The fire-fighters must have grinned a warm and rather good-natured grin when they made a little clearance round that pole. They knew, however, that the lesson would be lost upon us.

Puck and all his associates are still entitled to their merry quip. "What fools these mortals be."

"Today is National Fire Prevention
Day."

Most of our fires are as needless as they are destructive. They proceed

Berton Braley's Daily Poem
THE HAPPY LAND

In the country of Joja, the king of
Fumban,
Life runs on an easy and casual plan;
Though Joja's a despot, he's fond of his case
And mostly his people do just as they please;

The juice of the palm tree for drink
they distill
And each man has all the wives that he will,
(And one is enough for the average man)
In the country of Joja, the king of Fumban.

In the country of Joja, the king of
Fumban,
You needn't wear much save a coating
of tan,
You live in a hut and are warm and content
And no body ever pays anyone rent.
You cultivate yams a few minutes a

day,
The rest of the time is devoted to play;
You hunt and you fish and you dance
all you can,
In the country of Joja, the king of
Fumban!

In the country of Joja, the king of
Fumban,
There aren't any politics troubling the clan,
The king is the boss—there's no more
to be said—
And if you dispute it, why off goes
your head!

But mostly life moves in beneficent
clam,
And often I long to be under a palm Where life's still as simple as when
it began,
In the country of Joja, the king of
Fumban!

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

The Twins thanked him Urchy Urchin did not have the Fairy Queen's pink pearl, hidden in his bushy coat. The Twins and Cap'n Pennywinkle searched him all over and there was no sign of it. So Urchy waddled away to a secret place under some rocks that he knew about to sulk.

"We'll ask all the oysters and clams next," said Nancy, brightly.
"I'm sure they'd tell us if they'd found it."

She and Nick were off at once and ped on, continuing their search. They climbed over rock beds and asked the barnacles, but landee, they didn't seem to know what a pearl was, even! And the sponges didn't know anything about it, either, the dummies! And the shrimps just walked off and waded their feelers. They had their minds on their own troubles as the shrimp-nets had been put out and they had to watch their step. "And mind you, don't get caught in one of them!" warned one old fellow. "Bads

knocked at the door of each sleeping oyster as though the British were coming. But each one assured them pointedly that no pink pearl had come to them. One even remarked that to have a pearl, any old kind of a pearl, had been the height of his ambition all his life, but had he found one as large as a mountain and with all the colors of the rainbow in it, the Twins should have it, because they had been so kind.

I knocked, then opened it.
Only a desk light was lighted, so part of the grewsome thing was lost in shadow. At the desk sat a woman. I was fascinated by the beauty of her profile and poise. She had something in her hand, something that she had half drawn out from under the blotter on the desk. It looked like a photograph.

As I closed the door, she looked up.
She bowed slightly, a faint smile
quivered at the corners of her mouth
and then she was on her feet.

East Grove Man Found Not Guilty

Saturday the case of the people against Porter C. Funderberg, again came up for hearing, Justice Gehant trying the case in the absence of Justice Gannon. The state claimed that Funderberg had violated the common law in advertising for a house keeper and then failing to meet a train at Ohio, Bureau county, on which the complaining witness, Julia Carey arrived; that this was a fraud on her and on the public. Eight witnesses were examined on behalf of the state, and at the conclusion of the evidence for the people, and before introducing any defense, the defendant's attorney, Judge R. H. Scott moved for the dismissal of the case, and his motion was allowed and the defendant discharged.

Mr. Funderberg lives on his farm with his aged mother in East Grove township.

HARMON YOUTH HURT WHEN CAR SKIDS IN SAND

Peter Blackburn, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Blackburn, residing near Harmon, was badly injured about the head and shoulders Sunday in an auto accident near Shaw Station. "That Telephone is in Trouble"

The "inside plant" of the telephone exchange is made up of delicate and intricate apparatus—and no such machinery is entirely "trouble-less."

The signal that operates on the switchboard when you call might "burn out" or stick—then you can't get "Central." The fuse in your line on the "main frame" may blow out—then your telephone is "dead."

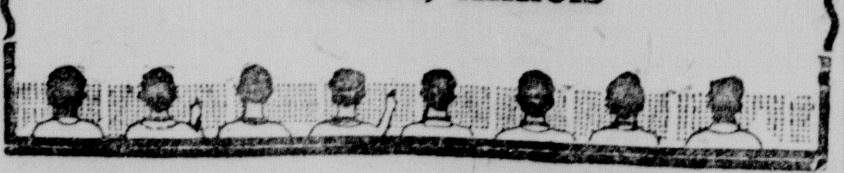

Switchboard cords are small flexible cables of many tiny wires; several of the little wires frequently snap from constant handling, then your connection "cuts off."

The apparatus is sensitive to extremes of heat or cold, dust or moisture. It is constantly watched and tested, but no precaution can eliminate all the trouble—these are just a few samples of the things that happen.

Considering all the electrical apparatus and connections involved in a telephone call, it is not surprising that things occasionally go wrong!

NOW FULL OF NEW LIFE AND ENERGY

Melbourne Can Do As Big Day's Work as He Could Fifteen Years Ago— Sleeps Like School Boy.

George W. Melbourne, 609 Eagle St., Joliet, Ill., well known yardmaster for the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern Railroad at Waukegan, Ind., has the following to say about Tanlac:

"I don't hesitate to recommend Tanlac to any one, for I have all the confidence in the world in the medicine. Why, it put me on the road to good health, and has fixed me up so fine that I can do as big a day's work as I could fifteen years ago and not feel any the worse from it. During the war my duties in the yards kept me on the go most all the time, both night and day, and I got in such a run-down condition I could hardly stay on the job. My nervous became unstrung, I lost my appetite and the little I did manage to eat wouldn't set right with me. I bloated terribly with gas, had awful pains around my heart and was so nervous and restless I got very little good from my sleep. I went down in weight and strength, felt tired and worn out all the time and was in mighty bad shape.

"Well, sir, five bottles of Tanlac have built me up and made me as healthy and strong as I could ask to be. I never had a better appetite, everything agrees with me perfectly and I sleep as sound as I did when I was a school boy. I'm so full of new life and energy that I feel like a different person and there's nothing too good I can say for Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Dixon by Thomas Sullivan and by the leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

CLASH RUSHES TABOOED BY N. W. STUDENTS

President Scott Is Authority for Statement.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern University announced today that by vote of the men students, class rushes had been abolished for the present at least, and if ever restored would be held in the daytime, limited to two hours and confined to the athletic field.

The action followed the recent Freshman-Sophomore clash following which Leighton Mount of Evanston, a freshman, disappeared and has not been located.

President Scott denied reports that Arthur Persinger, a sophomore, had been found bound, head down to a pier in Lake Michigan and when found by citizens was nearly drowned from waves breaking over him. He also denied that girl students had championed their classes by free-for-all hair-pulling.

President Scott declared Mount's disappearance was in no way connected with the class rush, but that the boy had left home after being jilted by a girl.

OUR AIR DEFENDER

General Patrick Has Toughest Military Job in America

BY NORRIS QUINN.

Washington.—The man with the hardest job in the nation's defense organization is Gen. Mason M. Patrick. He's just been appointed chief of the air service with rank of major general. He's stepping into the job from which Major General Charles T. Menoher resigned.

Being chief of the air service means:

THAT he'll supervise the most complicated branch of the national defense service.

THAT he'll have to have a working knowledge of practically every science, for they all figure in producing planes and supplies and making planes fly.

THAT he'll have to know every detail of the operations of the army, navy and marine corps, for the air service has to cooperate with all of them.

THAT he'll have to keep up to the minute in the development of commercial aircraft.

THAT he'll have to supervise training of representatives of 50 trades whose work figures in the air service.

THAT he'll have to build up a service that is without precedent or tradition, because the use of aircraft in war dates only from the World War.

Patrick was chief of the air service in France throughout American participation in the World War.

When the war ended Patrick found himself in command of an outfit with 78,000 men, 6264 planes, 300 balloons, 802 hangars, 32,000 acres of land and 11,000,000 square feet of buildings.

And he bossed this organization so well that he got a distinguished service medal and citation.

He was born at Lewisburg, W. Va., in 1863, was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1886, and from the Engineering School of Application in 1889. He has:

Supervised improvement of the Mississippi river.

Commanded the United States Military Academy engineering division.

Aided in river and harbor work at Norfolk, Va.

Improved Great Lakes harbors.

Nevada has the fewest women, in proportion to total population, of any of the states.

WILSON & COLBY "DOING BUSINESS"

THE SIGN ON THE DOOR
By Newspaper Enterprise

Washington, D. C.—The law firm of Wilson & Colby is in active operation.

Ex-President Woodrow Wilson senior partner will spend an hour hence forward at 1315 F Street. Former Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby can be found "in" at almost any time.

The Wilson-Colby offices are on the sixth floor of one of Washington's oldest office buildings in the heart of the capital's business district.

Leaving the elevator a visitor sees two glass doors, lettered in black characters: "Wilson & Colby, Attorneys and Counsellors at Law."

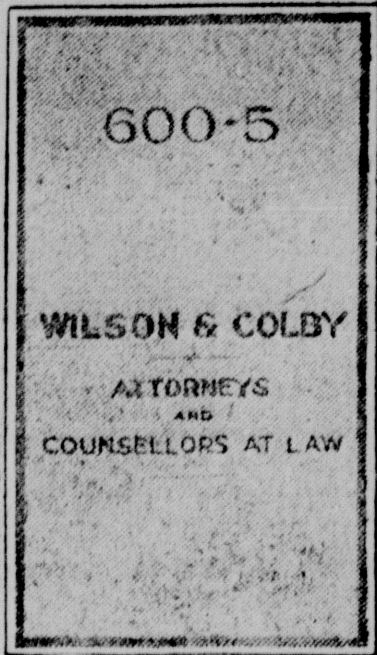

He passes through the doors and finds himself in a reception hall of the age before efficiency experts began to make every square inch of floor space count.

Along one side of the reception hall runs an upholstered settee for waiting clients. A bright copper urn is there, too, to receive callers' sticks and umbrellas.

From the reception hall the visitor passes into an inner office where a clerk is busily typewriting legal forms. At the right and left of this inner office are two very substantial newly paneled doors with copper knobs.

The door at the right leads to Wilson's private office. The visitor enters. The office is roomy, the ceiling high. The walls are white and unpapered. There are no pictures or maps.

A simple carpet of dark color covers the floor. Too low-set windows look out over a sea of roofs. Suburban woods and the Potomac river can be seen in distance.

"Mr. Wilson will come to his office as often as any other lawyer of distinction," said Mr. Colby, his partner. "That means that he'll do most of his research work at home but will come here when he meets clients or transacts actual law business."

"Will you specialize in international law?"

"That's what everyone says, but we haven't made any announcement of that kind. We're just a couple of ordinary lawyers, that's all!"

TRY THIS ONE

"It's easy," says Nita Sussoff, New York girl. But, of course, it takes practice unless you're very loose-jointed. The right hand is on the left of the face and vice versa.

Immediately on the scene, the American Red Cross quickly provides for the needs of disaster sufferers. The picture shows stricken citizens of Pueblo, Colo., receiving Red Cross aid. The Red Cross is urging universal renewal of membership during its Roll Call from November 11 to 24, to enable it to continue this indispensable relief work.

Posthumous Fame as a Composer
Caruso's Lot

Caruso's Caricature of Himself as a Composer

NEW YORK.—A bereaved musical world mourning the loss of the golden melody of their beloved Caruso poured into the roles of dignified Raoul, dapper Rodolfo, gallant Don Jose and the rest, has been cheered recently by the discovery that the great singer left a priceless and undying legacy in several songs of his own composition.

Only a few close friends knew about the songs while they were being done, for Caruso, in spite of his fame, was timid about his composing. Even those nearest to him would stumble upon the results of his hours spent with busy pencil only when they heard him humming an unfamiliar air. After he was sure they liked it, he would acknowledge its authorship.

Among the songs were "The Forsaken Window" (Finesta Abbandonata), "Olden Times" (Tiempo Antico), "The Song of Spite" (Canzona a Dispetto), and "Dreams of Long Ago," his best-loved brain child. He even drew a picture of himself to be used on the cover of this song, gleefully working out caricature details, and showing the final picture to his friends with much chuckling.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

ADVISES PRISON FOR CROOKS OF BUSINESS WORLD

Undermeyer U. S. Steel America's Great Industrial Enemy.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 8. — Samuel Undermeyer, counsel for the Lockwood legislative committee, last night characterized the United States Steel Corporation as the greatest enemy to the country's industrial life and peace. Under the pretext of the open shop, he asserted, the corporation for years "has been concentrating its power in carrying on a vast campaign of espionage and oppression aimed at the destruction of all organized labor."

He addressed the New York Association of Real Estate Boards reviewing the committee's efforts to relieve the housing situation and bring the guilty to justice.

Government Sees Danger

Mr. Undermeyer also asserted that when the committee started at the "big, powerful fellows" in business, financial and political life, "even the federal government and members of the cabinet took a hand and announced that there would be no 'drive against big business.'"

Now, however, he said, the government has awakened to the gravity of the housing situation and is in earnest in pressing its prosecutions. "The object lesson of 500 or 1000 of the many thousands of lawbreakers, he added, who have been masquerading as prominent business men, behind prison bars will do more to bring back business to an honest basis than anything we can do. It is the only way, and unless it is done quickly the government will no longer be able to cope with these forces."

Methodists Charge Names Were Signed Without Knowledge

Chicago, Oct. 8.—The report of the committee on state legislation of the Rock River Methodist Episcopal Conference was referred back to the committee today, after members whose names were signed to it interrupted the reading to charge their signatures had been attached without their consent.

"This report charges that the American public schools are ungodly," the Rev. John Thompson of the First M. E. church of Chicago said. "We cannot sanction that."

Other members of the committee said they had not seen the completed report, although their names were signed to it.

The committee report dealt largely with the action of the church in opposing twelve bills in the last legislature to legalize boxing matches. It also told of attempts to secure legislative regulation for the motion picture.
